About RugGear

Ruggear has been designing and producing smart rugged devices for more than twelve years. As one of the few companies in the world with complete control over its supply chain, Ruggear offers the broadest product range in the Rugged industry. Complete control means being able to offer better customer service on competitive offerings, but also ensures a vast amount of certifications and credentials to fit a business' need.

Why RugGear

RugGear phones are built to survive your work environment. The reality shows that many phones are not. In fact, research by Telecompaper shows that using your personal phone on your job doubles the probability for damage. RugGear phones are designed to withstand drops on hard surface, submersion under water for considerable time and exposure to dust and shocks, so there is no need to take it easy when you are at work. A case or bumper on your smartphone might “feel” good but it only protects the outer housing from scratches. Your phone is still not certified rugged device.

Taking along a RugGear phone on the job makes a lot of sense. The vast majority of our smartphones can be operated with working gloves on, our speakers are extra loud and our batteries extra large, so your device lasts as long as you do on the job.
